Feeding Tests On Cattle

A recent press release from Manyberries Range Station outlines the progress made with the 1/2 cross Cattle feeders in comparison with domestic cattle.

Briefly the cattle ate less feed and made less gain than domestic ones. On a 184 day feeding trial the cattle gained about 1.70 pounds a day while the domestics gained 2.39 pounds per day. The grain consumption per 100 pounds gain for cattle was 652 as compared with 577.8 pounds for domestic.

The dressing percentage of the group of cattle was over 60% while the domestics were 58.4%. One of the reasons for this being that the average weight for paunch and intestines in cattle was about 10 pounds less than in the case of domestics. This fact of smaller capacity may have something to do with the slower gains of the cattle.

The Cattle calves of both sexes made significantly lower daily gains, ate less feed per day, required more feed per 100 pounds gain in weight and had a significantly higher dressing percentage than any other groups on feed. The domestic calves graded higher because of better finish, made significantly higher daily gains than any other group, and were the most economical in the use of their feed.

These are the results of the first year's feeding tests. Possibly when the cattle get more adapted to their new quarters at Manyberries they will be able to show better results than they have this year.

The boundary between Canada and Alaska is 1,539 miles in length.

In an area of 6,000 square miles southeast of Lake Winnipeg there are 3,000 lakes.

T.B. Restricted Area

The first hurdle has been cleared. The Municipal District of Wainwright No. 51 has been declared a Bovine Tuberculosis Restricted Area. Testing has commenced on the eastern portion of the district along the Saskatchewan border. At the time of writing there have been some 1000 head tested and found free. The testing is done by the Dominion Government free of charge to the farmer. The only obligation the farmer has is to co-operate with the Veterinary Inspector when called upon to do so. When notified of the day the Inspector will visit the district, the farmer must have his cattle at the buildings or corrals, and sufficient feed available to secure the cattle from escaping when injected.

The most effective means of securing the cattle is a chute several feet long but only wide enough for a large cow to squeeze through. As the animal is injected at the tail-head and ear tagged a fairly substantial chute or pen is essential. Milk cows and other barn animals can be tested while tied in the barn. A chute or pen of this description will be essential for calf and vaccination of heifer calves against Bang's Disease or Bovine Brucellosis. Due to the large number of cattle to be done and the short period of time to do it in, it will be very important that farmers have their chutes and pens in good repair as soon as possible. Testing has commenced and you may be called upon anytime to have your cattle ready.

NEWS NOTES from your Dist. Home Economist

Mias Bernice Reed
Wainwright, Alberta

September is the month for freezing your beans, broccoli, brussel sprouts, corn, peppers and squash. All kinds of cookies freeze well, baked or unbaked. However, unbaked dough is easier to package and takes less freezer space.

Did you know that the reason you do not use iodized or free-running salt in your pickles is that the chemicals in iodized and free-running salts cause a bitter taste in the pickles?

If not enough salt is used in the pickle brine the pickles will be soft or slippery; if too much salt is used they may shrivel and become tough.

It isn't necessary to put wax on top of pickles. Just seal the jar tightly. Tips For Decorating Small Rooms Push your furniture back to open up the center of the room. Do as little angling as possible.

Provide wall shelves for your books and magazines, use old spaces which would otherwise be wasted.

Keep out of a small room every item you don't use and allow no accumulation of old reading material, unsuitable ornaments or odd furniture pieces, (unless a rich aunt gave them to you).

Use one basic color for walls, draperies and main upholstery. Don't lose the drama of your original color scheme by allowing other colors to creep in. Keeping doubtful objects out is as important as putting the right ones in.

The answer to last week's question is NO. The whole idea of processing is to have the entire contents of the sealer sterile. If you open the sealer to refill it air gets in, and almost certainly

Insecticides For Fly Control

Although the fly control program must depend on good sanitary practice, the use of proper insecticides also materially. W. Lewis, Supervisor of Crop Protection, Alberta Department of Agriculture says that for best results, insecticides should be wisely chosen and properly applied. Suitable insecticides for destruction of the house fly are DDT, Methoxychlor, Chlor-dane, and Dieldrin.

DDT: This is a good residual spray for use in barns, stables, hog pens, poultry houses, garbage cans and manure piles. Use 1 lb. of 95% DDT wettable powder or 1 quart 25 per cent DDT emulsion concentrate to make 3 gallons of spray. When applying DDT in the house, use only the oil solutions that have been prepared with water, white, odorless kerosene. Other preparations may cause streaking of the treated surfaces.

METHOXYCHLOR: There is some indication that the use of DDT involves a potential hazard when used on dairy animals, in milk rooms, or in rooms where dairy feed is stored. Use methoxychlor instead of DDT in such places. Methoxychlor is available as 50 per cent wettable powder or 25 per cent emulsion concentrate. It should be used at the same concentrations as DDT.

CHLORDANE: Many trials have been conducted by the Field Crops Branch on the effectiveness of Chlordane or fly control in each case, control equivalent to that obtained with DDT has been obtained. In these trials 4 gallons of 75 per cent chlordane emulsion concentrate was mixed with 100 gallons of water. Until more information is available, chlordane, like DDT, should not be used in the dairy barn.

DIELDRIN: This is a new insecticide that has formerly been used experimentally under the name of Compound 497. In tests by the Field Crops Branch a 35 per cent wettable dieldrin was used at a concentration of 8 lbs. to 80 gallons of water. Results on fly control have been outstanding and much greater use of this material is anticipated.

Mr. Lobay recommends that in using any of the insecticides mentioned, the surface treated should be thoroughly wetted to a point of run-off but no further. One gallon of mixed spray solution should cover about 500 square feet of surface. Whenever wettable powder materials are used they should be well agitated during the spraying period.

Spraying of a small area can be well done with a knapsack sprayer. For larger jobs a power sprayer should be employed. Although a high pressure sprayer (400 lbs. per square inch) may be preferred, good results can also be obtained with a low pressure unit (4 lbs. per square inch).

NOT FOR WOMEN ONLY

Many men have the mistaken impression that cancer is a disease of women but statistics show that many cancers, particularly of the face, stomach, mouth and lip and prostate are more frequently found in men than in women. Many forms of cancer are curable, particularly if they are discovered early. Don't hesitate to see your doctor immediately if you suspect you may have cancer.

mould will too. If you open a jar after processing it the entire contents should be used then, not reprocessed.

Can you think of at least three reasons why jelly may not set?

Prevent Harvest Losses

Just as important as growing a good crop is the efficient harvesting of that crop. C. A. Cheshire, Agricultural Engineer, Alberta Department of Agriculture, reminds us that there are several opportunities for losses to creep in at this time, whether you use a binder, straight combine, or swather. One of the first, and a usually large loss, is that at the cutter bar. Incorrectly adjusted reels shatter seed badly. This is especially true in straight combining any crop, and in swathing the rate of the fore-edge seeds such as creeping red fescue and crested wheat grass. The sole purpose of the reel is to guide the crop onto the table and to support it while the knife does its work. Other causes of cutter bar losses are dull knife sections, worn ledger plates, and bent guards. Check these parts to see that they are operating efficiently.

With the weather, relatively large losses often occur due to part of the swath falling to the ground. Altering the height of cut will often reduce this loss, while changing the setting of the deflector plate will change the angle of the stalks in the swath and give a better matting effect.

Mr. Cheshire points out that in the combine or thrasher three main precautions are needed for an efficient job. First, the rate of feeding must be kept low enough to prevent overworking of the threshing and separating parts. Secondly, the cylinder concave clearance must be as large as possible and still do a good job of threshing. Finally, the wind should be adjusted as close to the front of the shoe as possible. It should provide maximum agitation without being strong enough to carry the seed over with the chaff. With small seeds such as clover and grasses, and to some extent with grain that has lodged, or has a heavy, tough second growth, ground speed must be kept low while threshing speed is maintained. This is most important if you expect to get the maximum amount of your crop.

Between May, 1949, and May, 1950, Canada's manufacturing wage index rose 4.66% while the cost-of-living index increased by 2.52%.

P.F.R.A. Pastures

More than 70,000 head of livestock owned by some 5,500 farmers were pastured on nearly 1,500,000 acres of community pastures operated by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration in Manitoba and Saskatchewan last year. The community pasture program was developed to permanently restore lands unsuitable to grain production to a grass economy for livestock production. Since 1928 this program has brought back 150,000 acres of weedy, run-down abandoned farm land to a productive condition through artificial seeding and careful management practices. The principal grass used is crested wheat grass. The carrying capacity of the pastures has been doubled since 1928. Numerous pasture services are provided including breeding service with purebred bulls supplied, control of insects and diseases, dehorning, marketing, movement of cattle, and insurance services. Pasture fees for cattle are 50 cents a month, 75 cents for horses and 7 cents for sheep.

According to reports from Southern Rhodesia, extension methods combined with minimum in chemical inputs, banishing with craft, superstition and fear in that part of Africa.

Farming techniques, have shifted from exclusive use of hand tools to machine tipped hoes, to ox-drawn plows, cultivators and harrows. A few power tractors are used.

After 30 years of conservation, crop rotation and use of fertilizers, crop yields have increased by 10 times. It is reported. Native farmers no longer buy magic potions to make their crop flourish after finding modern scientific methods much more productive.

The first agricultural missionary in Southern Rhodesia, Emory Alford, used the demonstration plots and the "learn to do by doing" formula to persuade natives to turn away from their old farming practices.

The Scotch accent will be very apparent this fall! If matching tartan plaids has been a home dress-making problem to you, local sewing centre experts suggest this tip: when cutting from plaid fabric, place and cut a single piece of the pattern before going on to cut other sections. The plaid can be matched perfectly on each section and pinned accurately before cutting the remaining sections.

What About The Farmer?

The employees of the Railways have been ordered by Parliament to go back to work. Parliament has approved a provisional four cents an hour increase in pay and states that the question of shorter hours and some other matters will have to be settled by negotiation.

Falling this an official arbitrator will be appointed whose decision will be final. Railway Union Leaders point out that this is a victory for the employees against the railways. It seems to me, however, that the so-called victory is really against prairie farmers who eventually will have to pay a large share of the increased wages granted to railroad men in the form of higher freight rates, and all while the farmer's initial price of wheat has actually been reduced from $1.75 to $1.49 bushel.

It seems to be obvious that in these forthcoming negotiations, and in all other negotiations between employers and employees where the matter affects the interests of the farmer, representatives of the farmers themselves should sit in on the conferences to set out the interests and views of prairie farmers, who in the end will have to pay the bulk of the costs of the present and any further advantages granted to railway and other labour employees.

Gertrude Morgan Helps Tennis Back To Popularity

Big-time tennis in the United States, following the close of the era of Tilden, Vines et al, slumped in public popularity. But it has come back although possibly not quite to its former peak. It hit with "Big Bill" piloting the strategy.

In more recent times, one well-known lady from Santa Monica, Calif., Gertrude "Gus" Moran has helped put the sport spotlight on tennis. On the sacred courts at Wimbledon two years ago, Miss Moran fitted about with an inch or so of delicate lace showing below her tennis shorts.

She—and tennis—got more publicity from her last-minute episode than had she been a triple-crown winner. Wimbledon.

Last week "Gus" gave up the amateur ship; turned professional with Bobby Riggs touring pro troupe for a $75,000 one-year contract.

A regular heavy of reporters and photographers was on hand as Gertrude signed the contract. Her answers to questions were already beating the publicity drums for the touring Riggs show which will put in a couple of winter showings in Canada.

"As an amateur I had to be restrained because some of those tennis gowns can be a bit stiff-necked... now I can wear anything I want."

She said she'd wear a lot of filmy little things—leopard skin, ballerina skirts and, oh yes, more of that famous lace.

Actress Ginger Rogers who, it seems to most movie fans, looks more at home dancing with Fred Astaire than on a tennis court, will go long way to filling Miss Moran's shoes in amateur tennis. Miss Rogers played with former U.S. Davis Cup player Frank Shields in the mixed doubles recently but they were knocked out in the first round.

As one writer commented: "Miss Rogers wouldn't likely play any one off the courts at Forest Hills, N.Y., but she'd be a player worth watching."

In fact, that's the best part of Miss Rogers' game—watching her. The mixed doubles recently but they were knocked out in the first round.

Tennis generally could pick up quite a following in the Moran deal. More people possibly may become interested in the sport—more may join clubs. It may just be that extra shot in the arm that could wake the game up all over the North American continent.

One thing, of course, will have to be kept in mind: While watching Miss Moran cavort in scanty tennis outfits, let's not forget tennis. We can't make a complete burlesque of the game.

Any complacent ideas Americans had about their amateur and about Ted Schroeder certainly took an awful beating at the hands of the Davis Cup challenging Australians. The cup victory over the defenders may not have been a entirely unexpected but Schroeder's set back at the hands of Ken McGregor, the 21-year-old Aussie star, did rattle the fans.

There was almost an "I'll-be-glad-when-you're-dead-you-rascal" attitude among the fans when the same McGregor was knocked out in the first round of the National championships by Don McNeill who hadn't played tour ament tennis in three years.

Italy's wheat crop, according to the opinion of private sources will not reach the earlier wheat crop estimates of 273,300,000 bushels, but that more probably it will be around 264,240,000 to 267,910,000 bushels. Nevertheless, these sources point out there are reports of very high yields from the Po Valley, which is the granary of Italy.

Australia's export of wheat and wheat flour during the first eleven months (July-May) of the current fiscal year totalled 73,100,000 bushels of wheat and 14,653,000 centals (32,460,000 bushels of grain equivalent) of flour, according to private sources. This is slightly below the exports of wheat and flour for the 1948-49 season, which amounted to 74,071,000 bushels of wheat and 15,947 centals of flour (32,017,000 bushels of wheat equivalent).

Best dressed dog in the "Mud Show" held at the C.N.E. "Rusty" is shown with his owner, Barbara Bins of Newmarket, Ont. "Rusty" Highland outfit won the sarorial division and then he took the trick contest and later the grand championship. He is a pure bred Sheltie, a collie type rare in Canada.

Background For Blends—Modern type furniture in bland wood finds its attractive setting in a room with walls painted pearl gray, draperies of dull gold, and upholstery fabrics of deep green and coral.

New Color For Canvas—With special canvas paints that are now on the market it is possible to renew faded awnings and garden umbrellas. Such a coating keeps them from mildewing and is water repellent.

Colors Work Together—Each color in a room affects every other color that is there. When you place red next to a wall or an object that is painted with its complement, green, it will give greater beauty to the green. Orange, next to blue, will make the blue seem brighter. Pure blue, incidentally, appears to have a greenish cast when it is next to blue-violet.

More Time Is Blue Time—Scientific tests, it is reported, have shown that the blue is generally overestimated in rooms painted in red tones; underestimated, in room where the predominant color is blue.

Brushes Made of Reeds—The introduction of liquid paints in ancient Egypt brought the need for brushes. In the British Museum today there are specimens of tools used by the Egyptian craftsmen, including three brushes which seem to have been made of reeds or the fibrous stems of palm leaves. These reeds, according to historians, were soaked in water and slit into minute fragments which formed a brush more or less fine.

It's On The House—With a green roof, the body of the house will look entirely unexpected but Schroeder's set back at the hands of Ken McGregor, the 21-year-old Aussie star, did rattle the fans.

Color Treatment For A Living Room—An interesting color treatment for a living room combines French gray walls with deeper gray woodwork. The ceiling is painted pale yellow. Built-in bookcases have vermilion lining—a stimulating tone that is echoed in the upholstery of the divan and a deeply cushioned chair. The rug and fireplace facing are deep blue; the furniture mahogany.

How To Paint Windows—When painting windows, start at the top and work downward painting the respective parts of the window in this order: (1) sash top; (2) sills; (3) sash bottom; (4) meeting rail; (5) stop; (6) trim; (7) stool; (8) apron. The top sash should be pulled down and the inside face of the check rail carefully painted. The edges and the underside of the Color Sets The Style—With discretion period furniture may be mixed, but to avoid incoherence there are things to remember about the general tone of a house or a room. Color should be the keynote to its mode. Louis XV and other French period furniture is usually ornate and frail in appearance, calling for pastel walls and dainty silkens drapery. Flowered chintzes, ruffled curtains and prim valances are proper for Colonial. Modern, Spanish and Chinese themes express themselves in vivid splashes of color.

which cannot be scaled down by the government arbitrator who might be called in if no settlement is made within 30 days.

The unions gained in that parliament decided that the four cents will be applicable to hotel and water-transport employees of the railway companies, who were excluded from the general terms of settlement offered by the railways in negotiations. The companies had proposed for these workers an increase of two per cent.

The disputants now are left to argue out these major points:

1.—The railways offer the five-day, 40-hour week as of Sept. 1, 1951, with no loss in take-home pay from the present 48 hours. The unions want that arrangement as of June, 1951, but would concede a three-month transitional period in which no overtime would be paid up to 48 hours a week.

2.—The railways offer an increase of four cents an hour starting at once. The unions want seven cents an hour, retroactive to last June 1.

3.—The question of inclusion of the hotel and water transport employees in a general settlement, which apparently is not yet settled.

In its debate, Parliament did a considerable amount of manoeuvring on the government's proposals. Two amendments by the Progressive Conservatives were beaten back: one would have scrapped the government bill and set up a national administrator of railways pending a settlement by collective bargaining. The second would have eliminated the clause laying down compulsory arbitration in the event of failure of the two parties to reach a settlement in the prescribed period. The period, as amended by parliament, is 30 days, but may be extended at the joint request of both parties.

Danish Immigrants Prosper In Canada

Winnipeg — Helge Peterson of Copenhagen, director of the Swedish-American Steamship line, says Danish immigrants are prospering in Canada and feel "right at home."

Mr. Peterson recently toured western Canada and the United States.

Since 1924, about 60,000 Danes have moved to Canada, he said. Most now go to Alberta, because farming there is more diversified than in some other parts of the west and because the rolling country and climate are similar to those of Denmark.

A C.C.F. amendment would have gone along with the Progressive Conservative idea of a national administrator, but circumstances of the area of negotiations into the field left when the railway-union talks broke off.

The government this week knocked off a long list of emergency import controls on goods coming from the United States. The controls were imposed about two years ago to meet a bad dollar situation, which apparently has improved to the point where removal of these controls was possible.

Once it got the railway strike settled, Parliament launched into a more distant, but perhaps even more serious problem. Both External Affairs Minister Pearson and Defence Minister Cline spoke grimly of the situation as they launched the debate.

Mr. Claxton said plainly that it was no longer a question of guns or butter. It had to be both, and guns now are more important. He said Parliament will be asked to vote another $140,000,000 to $150,000,000 for defence. This will be in addition to the $125,000,000 voted at the last session.

Mr. Pearson warned against events in Germany, where, he said, Eastern Germany is armed by the Russians but Western Germany is unarmed. He warned that Korea may be repeated sometime, possible in Europe.

Plant Experts Still Improve Corn

Chicago — Plant breeders aren't through improving hybrid corn yet, though they've been at it for several decades.

At the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, for instance, they are working on a half dozen fronts:

In producing hybrid seed corn, it has been necessary to remove the corn plant's tassel. The detasseling job costs around $1,500,000 a year in Illinois alone. But now plant physiologists think they soon will eliminate detasseling from the American farm scene.

On another front, growing tall corn looks and sounds fine, but it is difficult and costly to harvest the crop by machine. If the ear could be grown at about knee length, combining could take place in the field as small grains are reaped.

The plant men have about 35 mutations now in which the ear grows close to the ground. Their problem is to introduce this factor into present high-yielding hybrids.

Then there is the search for hybrid strains which will be tolerant or resistant to plant diseases, unappetizing to corn borers and other enemies.

Another attempt concerns producing a corn plant which will bear many ears instead of only one of two.

Oil Content

And finally, the scientists are trying to change and specialize the contents of the corn kernels themselves. They want a corn which is tailored for a high oil content, another with a low oil content; another with a high protein content, and still another with a low protein content. Each of these would have particular uses in making feed and in processing.

Of these the one advance which seems most likely soon in the eyes of the college's plant experts is the ending of the difficult and costly detasseling task. Experiments in this have

New Deal For The Old Swamp

When pioneers started to clear land, they usually sought right away to drain any swamp they found on their property, clear away the shrubbery that covered it and turn the reclaimed land into a field.

They argued that, from a farming standpoint, the swamp in its natural state was waste land. They said, too, that often the swamp had formed part of an ancient riverbed and its black earth was capable of producing good crops.

The farmers of today are coming to deal differently with the swamp land that remains. They preserve it as an asset to their property.

The new attitude toward the swamp stems from recent interest in conservation, which includes protection of wild life, checking of soil erosion and the prevention of damaging spring floods.

been going on for a couple of years.

The goal is to produce a sterile male hybrid corn plant. The method is to spray a chemical over the whole plant, well before the tasseling stage, say when growth has reached 30 to 40 inches. This chemical is called maleic hydrazide.

It is a growth regulator, and already has been used to delay blossoming of fruit trees beyond the likely frost date, to kill wild onions and crabgrass, and to prevent suckers from forming on tobacco plants.

Plant breeders are making no recommendations yet for use of the spray. They emphasize that experiment have shown too strong a dose will prevent the ear from forming, as well as keep the pollen from shedding.

But they will go so far as to admit results thus far are "encouraging."

Ask an up-to-date farmer how he regards his swamp and he'll tell you it affords cover for many kinds of animals and birds. Wild life nests in its shrubbery and grassland and the young birds and animals later find their way to other parts of the countryside. When a stream flows through the swamp, there is often good fishing.

The water that fills the swamp in the spring—and provides a setting for a ballroom chorus—mosses surrounding forests and fields during the period of most rapid growth.

A stream that runs through a swamp has its own flood control system. Its waters, checked by the tangled growth along its banks, are unlikely to sweep down in a spring freshet to carry away valuable topsoil.

The soil of most swamps still is rich, black and silty. But it doesn't tempt the farmer any more. He knows that the old swamp can serve him best if kept the way it was left by nature.

From 1939 to 1949 Canada's net federal public debt per capita increased from $279.90 to $489.41.

Prairie Gardeners Hold Successful Achievement Day

Quite a large crowd was present in the United Church basement on Sept. 1st when the Prairie Gardeners (City Club) held a very successful achievement day there.

Miss Horbay and Mr. and Mrs. Dablinette were pleased with the splendid display of exhibits consisting of vegetables, flower arrangements, canning, project books and vegetable collections.

After the judging was finished the judges spent some time explaining to the girls their reasons for marks given on each exhibit.

A short program followed which was opened by singing. O Canada. Joyce Adams gave a talk on the value of vegetables in the diet. Marion and Beth assisted her by telling how to prepare and cook them. Margaret Collins and Margaret Ward from McLaughlin gave a demonstration on flower arrangement. Shirley talked on Salads and Jean and Lois each demonstrated one. Alice Bush and Donna McKinnin of McLaughlin gave use of herbs. Kathleen Swayne demonstrated table setting.

A short skit by Audrey, Joyce and Shirley finished the program. Marion, who acted as chairman, thanked the judges on behalf of the club and very capably made all announcements.

Miss Horbay, in her talk, pointed out that cooperation of parents and the whole community was necessary in order to have a successful city club. The efficiency prize which means a week at the Vermilion School of Agriculture next summer and which is given for the best all around club member was won by Joyce Adams.

The business men and parents—special prize which were given for "Best Collection of Canning," "Collection of Vegetables," "Flower Arrangement" and "Project Book" were awarded as follows:

The lunch arrangement was very well carried out by the girls with Beth, Audrey and Margaret Ward, the committee in charge. Kathleen took charge of the silver lunch collection. All Committees carried out their work well.

Marks on vegetables are not all on hand. Joyce has in turnips and beets; Kathleen 1st in carrots.

George Goede Suffers Painful Injuries In Fall

George Goede was the victim of a very painful accident last Wednesday when he fell from a rack while loading bundles, and struck the ground with such force as to break his hip.

It appears that the fall was just a bout completed when the accident occurred. There was about four stoops current, there being but four stoops to clean up. Mr. Goede was on top of the load dressing it while Ross Reinhardt was throwing up bundles. A tire on the wagon went flat and the consequent jar caught George off balance. He slid and fell to the ground, a distance of about 4 1/2 feet. Landing flat on his side he snapped his hip, and for a moment was knocked out.

Covered with cascading bundles he was soon released by Ross, who was surprised by the seriousness of his hurt. George is now in Wainwright hospital where he is making good recovery.

Big Wheat Field

The Blood Indian reservation is a tract of over 1,000 square miles of land lying southwest of Lethbridge in southern Alberta. During the war a substantial acreage lying approximately in the central part of the reserve, was used as a bombing practice range. About two years ago a group of 34 farmers leased nearly 35,000 acres of this bombing range from the Blood Indians and broke most of it up for grain production.

They have formed an organization known as the Blood Farmers' Association. William Ogden is the secretary-treasurer.

This year about 30,000 acres are under crop in this area and prospects, according to the Lethbridge Herald, are for an average yield of around 18 bushels to the acre giving a total estimated production of 540,000 bushels. A light frost occurred in the region on the night of August 19 but the grain escaped serious damage and a roundabout way of some 65 miles was the only route between the wheat fields and that city. To cut down the distance to 10 miles the farmers had a lodge built across the St. Mary's River.

Report to the People

Since my last contribution appeared in this newspaper a serious stoppage of services of railways all across Canada occurred and as a result of this a Special Session of Parliament was called on August 29th at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

It would appear that certain railroad workers have been negotiating with the respective companies for the past fourteen months to obtain better pay and shorter working hours and as they were unable to conclude negotiations the unions decided to call a strike at 6 a.m. on August 22nd. In spite of everything that could be done by both sides and with the assistance of a mediator appointed by the government no satisfactory settlement could be arrived at and sharp at 6 o'clock on the 22nd of August all trains ceased to operate and in addition all telegraph and hotel services were also at a standstill.

As soon as the Government discovered that a tie-up was in effect the Prime Minister summoned Parliament and as a result of this summons a very large percentage of the members, particularly those from distant points, booked passage on the different airlines, and by the morning of the 29th practically 100 percent of the membership arrived in Ottawa.

The Session was called at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the shortest session on record was read by the Governor General in the Senate Chamber after which the House of Commons got right down to business and immediately Bill No. 1 known as the Maintenance of Railway Operations Act was introduced.

Arrangements were made immediately for the House to sit three times a day during the Session and as a result of the co-operation of all parties the Bill was passed and given Royal Assent just after 10 o'clock on Wednesday evening. During the discussion of the Bill in all its stages the leaders of the labour union clamoured out in the gallery and on one occasion gave a statement to the press that if it became law for the workers to return to work they would obey the law, consequently I was awakened early on Thursday morning by one of the first trains moving at 2:30 and I believe many trains returning Canada were also moving very shortly after that time and almost complete service was resumed before the close of that first day.

The Bill provided that the workers should return to work and within thirty days after work commenced the railroad companies were to be required to enter into negotiations with the union heads and continue negotiations. If terms had not been agreed upon at the end of 30 days, the Cabinet could on either side, or both parties extend the time. If the parties failed to come to an agreement within that time the legislation provided that the Government appoint an arbitrator whose decision would be final and binding on both parties. The legislation also made it clear that neither party could withdraw from offers they had made during the period of negotiation and I understand that negotiations have again commenced in Montreal as this column is being written and it is earnestly hoped by everybody that satisfactory arrangements, fair to both the workers and the railroads, can be arrived at.

Several pieces of legislation have been introduced and most of them already passed at this time of writing dealing with the situation in Korea. As you are all aware the Government has already made available to the United Nations for use in the Korea area three destroyers and twelve planes as well as a special force which has recently been recalled. Legislation has been passed giving the Government authority to send this special force in Korea.

Other legislation has been passed giving the Government the right to control instalment buying, the right also to take control of the necessary materials for the production of armaments, including the power to fix prices and compel manufacturers to deliver certain materials and goods as ordered by the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

In order that all of the foregoing may be financed without the Government going in the red, the Minister of Finance, Hon. D. C. Abbott, introduced a budget on Thursday evening, September 7th. This budget created quite a lot of interest among members of the House as it was expected that there would be some drastic increases in taxation. The amount of taxes to be raised during the balance of the present fiscal year, which ends on the 31st of March next, on a total amount of $1,000,000,000. There is no change in the personal income tax rate, for which many

At the request of a number of Chauvin and district residents Anglican services will commence in Chauvin next Sunday and will be held every two Sunday evening. Why I, the Anglican priest in this district, am only too willing to accede to this request I will explain next Sunday evening. It is sufficient for the moment for me to say that there is no general condemnation by myself or anyone else of the spiritual ministrations of the two branches of the Holy Church already in Chauvin and therefore these services are hot started in a spirit of opposition, which would, to say the least, be highly unchristian.

War On Rats

In a recent order signed by the Honourable D. A. Ur, Minister of Agriculture, the Norway rat has been declared a pest under provisions of the Agricultural Pests Act. This means that every person in Alberta will be required to take active measures to destroy rats found upon any land or premises owned, occupied or controlled by him.

Alberta has been fortunate so far in its comparative freedom from rats, but with the gradual movement of these rodents from the east, active measures will be required to maintain our present position. Effective organization will be needed, and every municipality, village, town and city is asked to appoint an official to investigate any suspected presence of this pest and arrange immediate steps for its eradication.

Although direct supervision for control will be the responsibility of municipal authorities, the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Health are both concerned in avoiding entry and establishment of rats in the province. Unless the rats are controlled, the damage to our farm products and the effect on the health and property of our citizens can be serious. District Agricultural Officers are fully alive to the problem and local authorities can rely at all times on their co-operation.

The rat invasion is still in its early stages, and with the signing of this Ministerial order the alert has been sounded. With the co-operation and watchful care of every citizen, considerable financial loss may be avoided and this menace to health, property and supplies dealt with vigorously.

"John Mark, Who Made Good," Acts 12:25; 13:4-5, 13; 15:36-40. Memory Selection: "I can do all things in him who strengthens me." Phil 4:13.

John Mark was Barnabas' nephew, and Barnabas was the man who brought Saul of Tarsus, the convert, into the fellowship of the church (Acts 9:27) and afterwards into the leadership of the spontaneous movement outward of the Christian mission. (Acts 11:25-26) Mark had, therefore, a fine family background. Barnabas led him also into active Christian service. When Barnabas and Paul were sent out on the Church's first foreign mission after the prayer meeting and revelation recorded in Acts 13:1-5, they took Mark with them as a helper.

But Mark's stamina was not at first equal to his opportunity. So what we have before us in this lesson is a young man who made one of life's great failures, and was given a second chance.

What led Barnabas and Paul to go into the interior of Asia Minor we do not know. Galatians 4:13-14 suggests that some disease had seized Paul at the coast and that he had to get away from that low lying country into the highlands. At any rate their decision is recorded in Acts 13:13-14, and, at this point, Mark left them and went back home, no doubt to his mother's house. (Acts 12:12) Paul evidently felt that Mark's action was blameworthy, a desertion of the work and the workers when he was sorely needed.

The two heroic pioneers in the Christian mission went on without him, and met with marked success and bitter persecution in the cities of the province of Galatia. The story is told in Acts 13 and 14. They came back to Antioch to report their success and to face the problem of the place of Gentiles in the Christian Church. As described in Acts 15 and Galatians 2, a council of the church was called in Jerusalem, and Gentile believers were set free from the yoke of the Jewish ceremonial law. Then Barnabas and Paul proposed to revisit their Galatian churches and confirm them in faith, and Barnabas suggested taking Mark with them again.

Paul evidently felt that Mark was not to be trusted and Barnabas claimed for his nephew a second chance. The dispute was hot, and the two apostles parted. The result proved that Barnabas was right; Mark's later career completely vindicated his uncle's confidence in him. As the passages in our lesson show, Mark won Paul's confidence, and Peter's also.

In Paul's later letters we find Mark completely restored to his confidence and affection. Paul, the prisoner, nearing his martyrdom, asks to have Mark brought to him, and gives Mark's helplessness as the reason for the request, as we see in II Timothy 4:11.

admission of the fleet would risk rebels to postpone their insurrection or mutiny for a day, and if he did and they refused, well, it would not be good for them.

It does not appear that C.N.R. workers realize that except in wartime their roads are not earning enough to pay their wages and that the taxpayers have to make up the difference. They are practically on work-relief as many others were during the depression, yet they strike for less work, with an increase of pay to make up for the work-lag financially, in take-home pay.

Where does that place the C.P.R. Co? As the largest taxpayer in Canada, it has to help pay the wages of its clerical staff. Where does it place C.P.R. work? As taxpayers they too have to slip into their jeans to help pay the wages of C.N.R. men who when they are asking for less work are practically asking for higher relief rates which all taxpayers will have to pay. The wonder is that C.P.R. workers should have associated themselves with this scheme which is so prejudicial to their company and themselves.

For the fight he put up to oust Communists from his organizations, Frank Hall was given great credit but they would have been no hindrance to him in his subsequent defiance of the government, indeed they would have been his most loyal, enthusiastic supporters.

This advertisement appeared in the Magna (Utah) Times: "Farmer, aged 38, wishes to meet woman about 30 who owns a tractor. Please enclose picture of tractor. Write Box Y, Magna, Utah." On reading this to a friend, he said there is a big difference in tractors and one cannot be too careful in making a choice.

PERIOD FOR PRECAUTION

Every fall the insidious terror of poliomyelitis, the dreaded infantile paralytic, stalks the land. The mother of every Canadian child lives in dread of this crippling disease. While science has not yet solved the polio problem it has made many advances. The important thing for mothers to remember is to secure medical advice immediately when suspicious symptoms become evident, particularly if other cases of polio have been reported in the neighborhood.

Judge: What did you do when you heard the accused using such awful language? Policeman: I told him he wasn't fit to be among decent people, and brought him in here.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

people are thankful, but we must remember that there are four by-elections being held next month and also another budget will be introduced at the Session in 1951.

An increase of $1.00 per proof gallon was imposed on liquor. Tax on malt us $4 in beer is increased from 16 to 21c a pound. There is also a new 30 percent tax on soft drinks, candy and chewing gum and 50c per pound on carbonated acid gas used in soft drinks. This is one tax that has been severely criticized by members on all sides of the House as it is again taxing the things kiddies use.

There is an extra excise tax of five percent on automobiles, tires and tubs and a long list of other articles which will again boost cost of production and cost of living alike. I may say, however, that stoves, washing machines and refrigerators are excluded from this additional tax and the taxes mentioned are to be applied at the manufacturers' level.

Space will not permit me to go into greater detail at this time but when harvest is over I hope to visit many of the points in the constituency and that time will be able to deal more fully with this and other matters.

SCIENCE ON THE MARCH

The steady advance of science has pushed tuberculosis from its former place as the leading cause of death in Canada. Tuberculosis can be cured. Protect yourself from this disease by having periodic chest x-rays. These examinations discover tubercles before symptoms become apparent, making cures easier, quicker and cheaper.

Kindergarten of the Air

Discussed By H.C.

The U.S. Civil Service Commission reports that on June 30 there were 1,467,111 persons in the pay of the federal government, a reduction of over $9,000 from the previous survey. This provides a good reason why Truman was unexpectedly re-elected, also why Roosevelt won his last two elections. Most of those on the payroll were voters, each able to influence two, three or more members of the family. That is what Al. Smith had in mind when he said you can't beat Santa Claus and that's what governments have in mind, too, when they hesitate to reduce the civil service.

Writing to a London newspaper, an English socialist says he can remember when it was a stigma to be called a socialist. Would it not have been better if the stigma had ended? What has it done but arouse class differences and pave the way for communism which is made up of socialists in so great a hurry they cannot abide what is to them the slow process of constitutional development but would not need to fear Russia were it not for those socialists turned communists.

Many people think the Russian are using German tactics when they say, America are the aggressors in Korea. Hitler used that "big lie" every time he attacked a neighbor but he was aping, too. The Jap delegate to the disarmament conference at Geneva reported in 1932 that China had nearly attacked Japan but it was greeted with a loud guffaw. It is no laughing matter now because Communism, no matter where they live, have lost their sense of humor while under training to believe and repeat what they are told by the Boss.

It has often been said that Russia has a fifth column in every country in the world, but that is not correct. There is one exception—Turkey. Thanks to Kemal Pasha, Communism was outlawed and if any one tried to gain entry he, as one writer puts it, found himself tied up in a mull sack and thrown into the Bosphorus. It is all right to give freedom to those who want to preach such ideologies provided it is reciprocal, but it is folly to allow any country isolated by an iron curtain to send its emissaries abroad for subversive purposes.

Turkey is a next door neighbor of Russia, but because of its courage has escaped the infiltration and aggressive tactics, directed against other neighbors of Russia. It is the only country bordering Russia that has ofered ground troops to the U.N. for service in Korea.

It was noted last week how considerable railway union leaders were when they ordered that in the event of a strike, C.N.R. trains would proceed to their destination instead of halting at the zero hour. They had nothing on the Prime Minister in the matter of civility. It was nice of him to ask them to postpone the strike for a month. No commander-in-chief of the army, no

Shall They Inherit The Earth?

Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, soil conservationist of the U.S. department of agriculture, has written for farmers and ranchers of this continent what he calls the eleventh commandment, which reads:

"Thou shalt inherit the holy earth as a faithful steward, conserving its resources and productivity from generation to generation. Thou shalt safeguard the field from soil erosion; the living waters from drying up; the forests from desolation; and protect thy hills from over-grazing by thy herds, so that descendants may have abundant grace forever."

To which a British poet has added: "OWNERSHIP"

We till a corner of this earth today And call it "ours", because we do not see That it belongs to those who led the way, And to the men and women yet to be.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND IN CANADA

Services for the FIFTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, Sept. 17, St. Mary the Virgin

10:30 a.m. Sunday School
11:00 a.m. Morning Prayer

Parishioners are asked to note the change in service times, made necessary by the commencement of services at Chauvin. On alternate Sundays there will be Morning Prayer instead of Evening Prayer. Sunday School will be at 10:30 a.m. every Sunday in future instead of the 11:00 a.m. time as formerly. The Sunday School scholars will remain for the morning service, but will leave before the sermon, thus giving them an opportunity to join in church worship which they have not had before, and which is most necessary if they are to develop as Christians. It is to be hoped that all will show approval of the changes by their regular attendance, which changes have been already approved of by the Church wardens, the Vestry and the Sunday School Superintendent, and were made possible by the Christian cooperation of St. Patrick's congregation who have agreed to forego two of their services each month.

Finds Norwegian Kin After Thirty Years

LONDON — Wendy Walsh, 22-year-old Australian pianist, owes her widowed family circle to a song she heard while lying in a London hospital bed. Hearing Solweig's song from the Peer Gynt suite reminded her of long-lost Aunt Solweig and Uncle Ole, of whom her mother so often spoke. They were last traced to somewhere in the Arctic town of Tromsø, Norway.

When she left the hospital, Wendy hitch-hiked to Newcastle and boarded a Bergen-bound cargo ship. Then she took a coaster sailing into the Arctic Circle. A chance encounter with a priest led her to 85-year-old Uncle Ole, her grandfather's brother, and Aunt Solweig. She will soon leave London for instruction in Vienna. Before she leaves she will mail an eagerly-awaited letter to the family in Australia giving them the first news of their Norwegian relatives in 35 years.

Chili Sauce Ready For Midwinter

It may not be a compliment to the Canadian homemaker when the members of the family help themselves so generously to chili sauce or tomato catsup but at least they appreciate this family brand of pickles.

As far back as records extend, we learn of man's search for spices and condiments to add flavour and accent to his food.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have many "musts" which apply to pickling and several of them are important in making chili sauce when good flavour and colour are essential.

Spices should be used with care. A dark colour or bitter flavour may result from using too much spice or from boiling the spice too long with the vinegar.

Vinegar gives its flavour to the pickle so it is important that a good quality vinegar be used. Clear, uncoloured vinegars have good flavour and are excellent for use in chili sauce.

Many recipes for chili sauce have been tested in Canada's Kitchens and several were considered excellent. Some that were tested of course were variations on the regular recipe, using various ingredients. Another was called uncooked chili sauce and, as the name suggests, is really an uncooked pickle. The colour and flavour of this chili sauce was particularly good and some housewives will want to make up at least one batch for later use. Care should be taken to follow directions carefully and sterilized, air-tight sealers should be used as containers. This type does not keep so well as the cooked variety and so should be used early in the season.

One type of chili sauce tasted may be cooked either on top of the stove or in the oven. This method will be appreciated by most housewives since the full hour of cooking. For making the full recipe, the home economists used an enamel roaster (9 x 15 inches) and the raw mixture was 2 inches deep. By the time the sauce was finished, the volume had decreased and the mixture was about 1 inch deep. The whole recipe yielded about 4 pints sauce.

Oven Chili Sauce
7 lb. tomatoes (about 25 medium)
5 medium onions (2½ cups chopped)
2 sweet red peppers (¼ cup chopped)
2 cups diced celery (¼ inch)
1½ sticks cinnamon (4 inches)
1½ teaspoons whole cloves
1½ teaspoons whole allspice
1 small, dried chili pepper
1½ teaspoons nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
1½ tablespoons salt
1½ cups sugar
1 cup vinegar

Peel tomatoes and chop coarsely. Put onions and sweet red peppers through the food chopper using the coarse blade. Tie sticks cinnamon, cloves, allspice and small chili pepper in a cheesecloth bag. Combine all ingredients in a wide, shallow pan, such as a roaster. Bring to boil on top of stove, then place in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., and cook until thick about 3 to 3½ hours. Stir occasionally during the last hour of cooking. Remove spice bag and pour into hot, sterilized sealers and seal. Store in a cool, dry place. Yield: about 4 pint sealers.

If desired, this chili sauce may be cooked slowly on top of the stove for about two hours.

Uncooked Chili Sauce
5 lb. tomatoes (about 24 large)
2 large white onions (2½ cups thinly sliced)
1 cup cut celery
2 large sweet red peppers (¼ cups sliced)
2 large sweet green peppers (2 cups sliced)
2 cups vinegar
3 cups sugar
1½ cups coarse salt
1 tablespoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
Blanch tomatoes, cold dip, peel and slice coarsely. Measure... there should be 4 quarts (20 cups). Place tomatoes in a cheesecloth bag, hang and allow to drain thoroughly for about 1 hour. Slice onions thinly and cut each slice in half. Cut celery crosswise in ½ inch strips. Add with onion to the tomatoes. Cut red and green peppers into strips (¼ x 2 inches) and add to tomato mixture. Mix vinegar, sugar, salt, mustard seed and cinnamon and bring to boiling point. Pack vegetables solidly into hot, sterilized sealers, pour hot liquid over the vegetables to completely cover. Seal. Store in a cool, dry place. Do not use for at least a month. Yield: about 10 pint sealers.

County Farms Shown On 90-Year-Old Map

Kettleby, Ont.—A 90-year-old linen-back map of York County which shows the location of every farm in the county in 1860, is in the possession of a resident here. The map is five feet square and yellow with age. It carries the title, "Provincial map of County of York, Canada West and of the city of Toronto."

Frederick J. Foley, owner of the map, says it was bequeathed to him by an old resident of the district who he died. Mr. Foley says he would like to see it bought by some public institution so the public could see it.

In addition to showing the location of every farm in the county, the map also carries the name of the owner or lessee of each one.

Pictures of well-known Toronto buildings are also shown. They include St. Lawrence Hall, The Toronto Exchange, Trinity College, Osroede Hall and what is believed to be Toronto General Hospital.
